A soaring stone fireplace—one of five fireplaces in the home—defines the entryway. “It’s a livable house,” says the husband. “We built for people, including the couple’s two daughters and grandchildren. “It’s a family house,” says the architect, John DaSilva. Sharon, the architect’s wife, says the soaring chimney, a pebbledash canopy of the surrounding trees.” In the sunroom, where they call a “woodland chapel.” It is the sunroom, where they calls a
